

Karen McCullough

Nationally known Keynote Speaker on the Generations

Karen McCullough is a nationally recognized keynote speaker and generational expert who helps organizations break down generational barriers, lead through change, and build energized, inclusive cultures. Her signature keynote, It's Not Personal, It's Generational, delivers fresh insights with humor and real-world stories that make audiences laugh, think, and shift their perspective. With a background in retail and branding, Karen has presented to top organizations and leadership teams across North America, including Procter & Gamble, McDonald's, and MD Anderson.