

Tasha Walsh

Tasha Walsh, Licensed Clinical Social Worker and Professional Certified Coach, has been on the leading cusp of the health and wellness field for more than 35 years. She brings extensive experience in positive psychology, organizational and professional development, and innovation to her leadership in the healthcare arena, helping organizations develop a positive workplace culture while implementing best practices in their service line. For the past decade, Tasha serves as CEO of ConnectionsPlus Healthcare + Hospice in the southern Shenandoah Valley/Appalachia region, as well as a faculty member of the Healthcare Coaching Institute.

Her career history includes serving as the Chief Learning Officer for an international behavioral healthcare company, here she orchestrated the development of an award-winning leadership development coaching program. In this role, she was a key team member for an innovative NIH funded 10-year research/practice partnership with Vanderbilt University focused on measurement-based feedback interventions in integrated healthcare.

In her down time, Tasha may be found making music, spending time with family and friends, watching the sun move over the mountains, or doing most anything outside.
